PLANS FOR BETTERMENT WORKING GIRLS CONDITIONS.

Chicago, April 2.—Members of the state senatorial committee appointed to investigate tht white salve traffic, today in executive session, agreed to ask the co-operation of State street merchants in the formation of a permanent national organization to aid working girls.

According to the plans approved by Lieutenant Governor Barratt O'Hara and the state senators composing the commission, the Chicago merchants, who employ large numbers of girls and young women will be asked to perfect an organization which will include branches in every large city in the country.

This association, it is expected, will take up the problems of the working woman in systematic fashion and will develop a comprehensive program for the aid and betterment of all women forced to earn their living in stores, factories, or other places of employment.

Marriage, death or an immoral life are the only avenues of escape for girls from the toil of the sweat shops according to testimony of witnesses before the Illinois vice commission which resumed its inquiry here today.

Lieutenant Governor O'Hara, chairman of the commission, devoted much time examining girls and women from the West side sweat shop district, where wages range from $2 50 to $5 a week.

Lieutenant Governor O'Hara agreed with Senator Juul to give one dollar each to sweat shop witnesses because it was believed they would be docked by their employers for the time spent before the commission.

The moral obligation of employers to make certain that all their employes are properly clothed and adequately nourished was emphasized throughout the session.

MISUSE OF PASSES IN COLORADO

COMMISSIONER HARLAN FINDS THEIR ILLEAL ISSUANCE AND USE GENERAL

EVERYBODY IS DOING IT

District Judges, County Officials and Ministers Even Involved

By Associated Press

Washington, April 2—Commissioner Harlan of the Interstate Commerce Commission who has been conducting an investigation into the alleged illegal practices of Colorado shippers and railroads in connection with the issuance of railroad passes and their use in that state said today that startling conditions had been revealed. It was announced today also that criminal indictments against a number of large shippers and several railroads had been returned.

In his preliminary report Commissioner Harlan said:

"I find in one month that over a single line of railroad, passes for 7,000 trips were issued to secure through shipments of goods. I find the greatest laxity in the issuance of passes and that public officials even are careless in this particular. I find district judges, county and state officials and even ministers of the gospel using passes improperly and even in some instances passes are demanded by county officials before they will perform their official duties where railroads are interested. The misuse of passes to secure interstate routings has been frequent."

ALL READY FOR WHIRLWIND CAMPAIGN

The chairman and members of the several committees are to meet at the Chamber of Commerce at 2 o'clock and start from there.

It has been several years since there was any organized membership campaign and this one is expected to be productive of good results. It is believed that there are a great many Wichitans who have moved here in recent years who have never joined because the matter has never "been put up to them," and that these may be enlisted in the work, with a few hours of co-operation and effort on the part of the old members

EXPRESS COMPANIES HARD HIT BY PARCELS POST.

Washington, April 2.—Express companies of the country have been hit hard by the operation of the new parcel post system, according to a statement submitted to the Interstate Commerce Commission today by counsel for the companies in their final arguments against the reduction in express rates proposed by the commission. It was declared that the companies have suffered a loss approximating 25 per cent in small package business—a loss which amounts to about 6 per cent of the gross revenues of the companies

Walker D. Hines asserted that for the five companies he represented—the Adams, American, United States, Southern and Wells Fargo—application of the proposed rates to present business would reduce revenues about $26,000,00 a year, or 5 85 cents on every dollar's worth of business done Such a reduction in revenues, he said, would be absolutely destructive He maintained also that the formula-made rates would seriously disturb business conditions in large centers, such as New York and Chicago, by forcing a readjustment of competitive business conditions

B F. Fairchild of the New York Chamber of Commerce, for the express shippers, attacked Mr. Hines's argument as purely theoretical and hypothetical and insisted that the proposed rates would yield an ample revenue to the express companies He maintained also that the present allowances made by the express companies to the railroads for transporting services were excessive

Owing to Mrs Jones' advanced age, this injury will probably disable her for the remainder of her life, though it is not expected to prove fatal. She was resting easily this morning, but it is doubtful if she will ever be able to use the injured limb again

Last Night's Session.

About seventy-five teachers were present when Superintendent B. F. Holcomb of Vernon, president of the association, opened the convention at eight o'clock last night. Several changes of the program were necessary at the opening session. Mayor Bell who was to have delivered one of the welcoming addresses was detained by an important meeting of the city council and his place was very acceptably filled by Judge John C. Kay. State Superintendent F. M. Bralley who was on the program for the principal address of the evening wired that important legislation affectin geducation kept him in Austin. Prof. J. S. Henderson, examiner of schools for the State University was impressed into service and delivered a very instructive address.

"America" was the opening song, the audience being led by Prof. W. T. Bone, principal of the Vernon schools. Following the song the invocation was delivered by Rev. Fred L. McFadden of the Central Presbyterian Church.

Welcomed By Judge Kay.

Judge Kay then welcomed the visiting teachers in a short speech filled with quaint humor, first presenting excuses for Mayor Bell who was unable to be there. He said he wanted them to see and enjoy all the good things we had, but advised them not to look for the falls from which the city was supposed to derive its name. He said some visitors had gone away from here testifying they had seen the falls but that their eyes had been in such a juxtaposition at the time from the enjoyment of a certain luxury that they were probably blind at the time. He wanted them to be sure to visit the glass factories and to know that if more blowers were needed there—there weer plenty of real estate men and lawyers here who were well qualified for such work.

"I was a teacher once myself," the speaker said, "and I might have been teaching yet but for a man over in England. This man discovered a principal which is called the survival of the fittest. The school board where I taught got hold of a copy of his book and—well, I didn't teach any longer.

Supt. Carpenter Speaks.

"If I was going to find fault with you school teachers," he continued, "it would be because you don't assert yourselves enough. The school teacher ought to be and is the biggest man or woman in any community, and a convention of school teachers is the biggest and most important gathering any community can entertain. You ought to assert yourselves more. But just about the time a feminine school teacher gets ready to assert herself she gets married and splits her salary with some man."

Superintendent Carpenter in his welcoming address on behalf of the schools of the city took occasion to refer to the recent strictures of the Ladies Home Journal on the public school system.

"Teachers," he said, "must study these matters thoroughly and conscientiously and we must decide for ourselves what is best from an educational standpoint."

Superintendent W. H. Woodley of the Childress schools, responded to the welcoming addresses. He paid a high tribute to the teachers on the frontier, the men and women who were working alone. He said it was encouraging to know that there was organization and companionship where he had been in different propositions he had had little organization and the teacher had to go it alone.

Children Teacher Responds.

He said before he had come to Texas a noted educator had advised him "Texas is the biggest state, has the biggest heart and the biggest opportunity." He said it was prophetic that these conditions were exemplified in Wichita Falls.

Prof. Henderson's address was a discussion of the correlation of the public school system with the institutions of higher learning of the state. He reviewed the growth in the educational system through which the present position where the schools dominate the colleges and where the courses begun in the schools are continued in the colleges was reached.

"The greatest demand in the schools today," he said, "is for vocational subjects. Everywhere on my visits of the schools of the state I find new vocational subjects being added, and new equipment being installed. Yet thousands of dollars are being spent uselessly in vocational teaching because the work is not standardized or organized. This is a problem which the higher institutions of learning in co-operation with the public schools must solve."

Refers To Wilson.

In closing he said there had never been a time when educational patriotism had been more in demand and promised that better days were ahead for the teachers. "All of us," he said, "apart from any political feeling rejoiced when Woorow Wilson was called from a teacher's chair to the Presidency of the United States, and one of the most important positions in his cabinet. And when the time came to promote President Taft, the only position above the presidency was a college professorship.

"Everywhere as teachers broaden their lives and touch elbows with men they are coming more and more to be respected."

This Morning's Session.

The teachers were slow in getting together this morning and it was nearly ten o'clock before the session was opened. After a song and the invocation a discussion of the theme "Educational Tendencies in Course of Study" was taken up. Principal R. W. Dodson of Vernon discused this subject from the standpoint of the high schools emphasizing the fact that the tendency today was toward an education to equip the student for life work. Superintendent Cantrell of Archer county also contributed interesting and pertinent observations.

The most interest however, developed in the discussion of the subject as related to the rural schools. Superintendent J. S. Holliday of the Clay county school sland in the discussion.

The Rural Schools.

He said the rural schools are making progress with the world and just as the automobile today is ahead of the old stage coach so are the schools of today ahead of the schools of the stage coach days. He said it was his purpose to use every effort to bring the rural schools of his county up to the highest standard.

"Give the country school children the same advantages as the boys and girls in town," he said, "and they will stay at home and they will outstrip the boys and girls in town." He said it had been his observation that country pupils with anything like equal advantages learned quicker and were more thorough than pupils in urban schools.

He believed the movement toward the consolidation of rural schools would place the rural schools on an equality with the best schools of the cities.

County Superintendent E. L. Witty of Wilbarger county declared that the tendency of the schools was turning away from making pupils merely intellectual machines to character building and to making men and women balanced mentally, morally and physically. He emphasized the importance of character building in the schools.

T. B. Taylor Speaks.

T. B. Taylor of the Bowman community, a lecturer for the Farmers' Union, member of the school board at Bowman and the head of a family of eleven children spoke of the work of the rural schools and discussed the relations of the school board and the teacher. He said that the members of the school boards ought to have been invited to the convention and declared that the teacher often had a more difficult job in teaching the school board than the children. At his suggestion President Holcomb announced that a trustees department would be added to the assolcation and that all the trustees would be invited and urged to attend the next convention.

The subject of "Legislation" was not taken up at the morning session on account of the absence of the speakers assigned the discussion of this topic.

Dr. L. W. Payne of the English department of the University of Texas and publisher of a collection of Southern literature closed the morning session with a talk on the subject of "Reading" in the school. He said the selections ought to be literature rather than selections for information. He said that Southern literature should be given first place as the love for literature like charity begins at home. He read several selections from the Southern authors illustrating points that might be brought out.

G. W. MASON SUES CITY NATIONAL BANK HERE

Another suit was filed today growing out of the Mason-Overall oil lease transactions, when G. W. Mason entered suit in the district court against the City National Bank for $6260, this being the amount of two drafts which Mason purchased at the bank with the money he received from the Producers Oil Company for the Overall leases. When the validity of the leases was called into question, payment was stopped on these drafts. Since that time Mr. Mason has been acquitted of charges of forgery and swindling growing out of the slase transactions and he now seeks to collect the drafts. Nelson and Pool of Stamford, are attorneys for the plaintiff.

J. P. MORGAN'S CAREER

No man of recent times has occupied a bigger place in American financial history than John Pierpont Morgan. He was in the banking business for more than half a century, and during the latter years of his life he was unquestionably the financial dictator of the United States. When a panic seized Wall street in 1901 during the struggle for the control of the Northern Pacific Railroad it was Mr. Morgan who came to the rescue. Again, when similar conditions prevailed in the fall of 1907, it was Mr. Morgan who saved the situation. Aside from these two incidents Mr. Morgan probably will be chiefly remembered for the part he took in floating the United States Steel Corporation. The violent decline in the securities of the steel trust during the depression of 1903-1904, and the storm of criticism that broke forth from the thousands of investors in the United States and in Europe who put their money into these securities, had been a thorn in Mr. Morgan's side, and his chief ambition in the years that followed was to see the steel securities in such position in the market that his most bitter critics would be forced to concede that he built the great trust on a substantial foundation.

Without a Peer in Financial World.

As an example of business capacity of a remarkable kind, Mr. Morgan was almost without parallel. He was as capable as any of the Rotschilds in the money line and his achievements as an industrial organizer surpassed any similar feats performed by other operators in the United States or abroad. Among the concrete results of Mr. Morgan's intellectual labors were the reorganization of the Buffalo and West Shore, and its lease to the New York Central; the reorganization of the Chesapeake and Ohio, the rearrangement of the Great Southern and the reorganization of the Erie, and his influence was felt by the Pacific system. Some of the achievements which he made incidents to his money and railroad business are the present efficiency of the China and Japan carrying trade, the consolidation of the Western Union Telegraph and the American Bell Telephone Company, the combination of the coffee producing and steel industries and the launching of the Edison process of magnetic iron ore separation.

Was Well Educated.

Mr. Morgan was born at Hartford, Conn., April 17, 1837. His early schooling opportunities were the best. He graduated from the Boston high school and was a student in the Vienna University for a time. His father was a banker of prominence and it was not difficult for young Morgan to get a start in the business world. His first experience was in the London house of Morgan & Peabody. Going to New York at the age of 23, he fought both Gould and Fisk for the possession of the Albany & Susquehanna railroad, and beat those old Napoleons of finance at their own game. In 1871 he became a member of the banking firm of Drexel, Morgan & Co., which later became J. P. Morgan & Co., the largest private financial institution in the world.

The history of the Morgan banking house reads almost like a fairy tale, so wonderful have been its achievements. In 1871 Mr. Morgan created a market in Euorpe for $25,000,000 of New York Central stock and sold it there at a profit which amazed old Commodore Vanderbilt. In 1877 he handled an issue of $200,000,000 of government bonds in preparation for putting the national currency on a gold basis. In 1880 he provided $40,000,000 for the extension of the Northern Pacific Railroad to the Pacific Coast. In the same year he was instrumental in the reorganization of the Reading Railroad and the Baltimore & Ohio, involving the loan of $10,000,000. In 1893 the Southern Railway was created out of the Richmond Terminal and allied lines. In 1895 he rehabilitated the Erie road. Two years later he put the Lehigh Valley on its feet and brought about the soft coal combination. In 1892 he performed one of his most remarkable feats. In company with August Belmont he undertook to and did maintain the gold reserve in the federal treasury, although he performed the impossible, the suspending of the laws of exchange in order to accomplish the result.

He Gave Away Millions.

Despite a life of strenuous endeavor Mr. Morgan found time for other things. He gave away millions in charity, but nothing perturbed him more than to have it mentioned to him. He was a devout Christian and vestryman of St. George's Episcopal Church, where he could be seen every Sunday morning when at home passing the silver salver for the collection.

He took an active interest in the Metropolitan Museum of Art, and possessed one of the most magnificent private galleries in the world. A deep student of medieval history, he collected many relics of the past, including a Bible for which he paid many thousand dollars, while at one time he bought a cope with was stolen from Italy and when the news of the theft leaked out showed his magnanimity by returning it to the original owners free of cost.

Enjoyed Life to the Utmost.

During all his years Mr. Morgan enjoyed life to the utmost. He was passionately fond of dogs and his kennels at Dragston were the wonder of breeders the world over. He rode and shot and angled enthusiastically and was fond of yachting. His yacht Corsair was one of his favorite recreations. He belonged to numerous societies and clubs in the United States and Europe.

It is impossible to estimate with any degree of accuracy the size of the Morgan fortune. It has been variously estimated in recent years at from $75,000,000 to $200,000,000. If it is any where near the latter figure it is equally true that he made as much for others.

In 1861 Mr. Morgan married Miss Amelia Sturges, who died the following year. In 1865 he married Frances Louise Tracy, by whom he had one son and three daughters. The son J. P. Morgan Jr., is now a man of middle life and for a number of years has been the active head of the Morgan banking house in New York.

J. P. MORGAN DIES IN ROME

WORLD'S GREATEST FINANCIER HEARD DEATH CALL AT 12:05 P. M. MONDAY

WAS UNCONSCIOUS

Patient Sank Into a State of Coma and Failed to Recognize Relatives.

By Associated Press.

Rome, Italy, March 31.—J. Pierpont Morgan, the great American financier, died at five minutes past twelve o'clock here today (this was 6:05 a. m. New York time).

When Mr. Morgan's death was seen to be approaching Prof. Bastinnelle and Dr. Dixon forced Mr. and Mrs. Herbert L. Satterlee, Morgan's son-in-law and daughter, and Miss Helen Hamilton, who had been in constant attendance upon Mr. Morgan since his illness, to leave the room.

Toward the end the patient showed evidences of internal suffering only by a movement of his right hand. Otherwise he displayed no signs of vitality except by his heavy breathing.

Frequent bulletins were issued this morning as his condition grew worse and by eleven o'clock his physicians gave up all hope. He had been unable to assimilate food for several days and last night his physicians administered heart tonic. His physical weakness was extreme and for several hours he was in a state of coma, unable to respond to any question or to recognize any of those about his bedside. One of his relatives, Mrs. Fitzsimmons, arrived from Canne during the morning, and was shown into the bed chamber but her presence remained unknown to Mr. Morgan.

The American Ambassador was told during the morning that Mr. Morgan's collapses were rendered worse by his increasing deafness.

After their arrival in Rome with Mr. Morgan, Mr. and Mrs. Satterlee realized their mistake in bringing him here instead of taking him to London where he could have remained in the quietude of his own house instead of at a hotel. The mild Rome climate also proved too ennervating.

Cable dispatches have been pouring into Rome all morning from all parts of the world inquiring concerning Mr. Morgan's condition.

BLAMES PUJO INVESTIGATION

By Associated Press.

Rome, March 31.—Dr. A. N. Starr of New York who was called into consultation on the illness of J. Pierpont Morgan attributed his breakdown to emotions caused by the investigations conducted by the Pujo committee of the American congress into the alleged existence of a money trust. These investigations agitated Mr. Morgan greatly.

THE STOCK MARKET WAS UNAFFECTED

New York, March 31.—The stock market here bore up well under the news of Mr. Morgan's death. The opening prices showed declines which did not reach one point on the leading stocks and under supporting orders rallied quickly. Trading showed no evidences of nervousness. Financiers said the recent rumors concerning the serious character of Mr. Morgan's illness had prepared the market for any possibility.

It became known today that Mr. Morgan had suffered a serious attack before leaving New York but had rallied so quickly that it was not considered the forerunner of probable fatal ones later.

FLOYD AND CLAUDE ALLEN ARE ELECTROCUTED TODAY

DIE IN ELECTRIC CHAIR FOR CRIME

GOVERNOR MANN RETURNS HURRIEDLY AFTER DELAY SEEMS LIKELY

HISTORY OF THE TRAGEDY

Shooting Up of Carroll County Court House Killing Five People, is Expiated by Allens

By Associated Press

Richmond Va March 28—Floyd Allen leader of the outlaw band in Carroll county, was executed in the State penitentiary this afternoon The aged prisoner terribly unnerved by the excitement, incident to the delay of six hours in carrying out sentence, went to the electric chair at 1 20 p m. He was pronounced dead at 1 35.

Under orders of Attorney General Williams, Superintendent Wood of the State penitentiary this morning delayed the execution of Floyd Allen and Claude Swanson Allen until the question of the lieutenant governor's constitutional right to act on a petition for commutation can be finally determined The respite was to hold only until after noon in event that Lieut Gov Ellyson declined to interfere

Meanwhile Governor Mann who was going to New Jersey, evidently had been advised of what happened during his absence, for he abandoned his trip

Allen's Friends at Station

When Governor Mann arrived in Richmond there was a large crowd about the station, principally friends of the Allens, but there was no demonstration Ten policemen and ten detectives escorted the governor to the capitol Floyd Allen almost collapsed in the death cell when informed the execution had been delayed and Claude Allen whose nerve after Allen's sentence, broke down completely. At noon Governor Mann issued the following statement

"Hearing at five minutes to three o'clock this morning of the action in the Allen cases after I left the city, I considered it my duty to hurry back. I simply desire to repeat that after the most careful examination of evidence in these cases, I have not the slightest doubt of the guilt of Floyd and Claude Allen"

It is understood the governor's son called him over long distance telephone at Washington and informed him of the respite at 2 o'clock this morning Upon Governor Mann's return the preparations for execution were immediately resumed

History of the Case

The execution of Floyd Allen and his son Claude Swanson Allen marks the first blow of justice upon the notorious Allen clansmen whose lawlessness for years held the natives of the Virginia mountains in terror and culminated early this year in the shooting up of the Carroll county court when five persons lost their lives The news of the crime sent a thrill of horror through out the nation and the shocked Virginia authorities moved expeditiously to bring the criminals to justice

On the morning of March 14 Floyd Allen stood before the bar of the Carroll county court house at Hillsville to receive sentence for his part in aiding the escape of another mountaineer from the custody of the sheriff A crowd packed the little court room for the character of the prisoner was well known Members of the Allen family were known to be in court and trouble was thought imminent.

Shooting in Court Room

The jury having announced a verdict of guilty Judge Thornton L Massie sentenced the prisoners to one year at hard labor With the last word of the sentence a crash of fire arms broke from the spectators benches Floyd Allen the prisoner with a smoking revolver in his hand leaped from the prisoner's dock and joined the rush of the gang toward the door

When the courtroom was cleared the body of Judge Massie riddled with bullets was found lying over his desk, Commonwealth Attorney William M Foster and Sheriff L F. Webb lay dead on the sloor, Augustus Fowler a juror and Elizabeth Ayres, a spectator were bleeding from wounds which proved fatal the next day, and Dexter Goad clerk of the court lay shot through the neck. Goad was one of the principal witnesses for the state at the conviction of the prisoners.

When the courtroom was examined later it was found that more than 200 shots had been fired Twenty-seven shots took effect upon those killed or wounded

Long Man Hunt Follows

An army of detectives and newspaper correspondents soon was scouring the muddy roads of the mountains in search for the prisoners. Floyd Allen the cause of the shooting who had been wounded by Sheriff Webb in the courtroom was taken the day of the crime, together with his son Victor Allen and his nephew Bird Marion

Sidna Edwards, a nephew of the Allen brothers was captured in a hut in the mountains March 23. Edwards, who is lame, had eaten nothing for several days and was very weak when found Claude Swanson Allen, another son of Floyd Allen, walked up to a posse in the mountin and surrendered himself on March 28 The next day Friel Allen, youngest member of the gang was taken at his father's home.

Floyd Allen charged specifically with the killing of Commonwealth Attorney Foster, was found guilty of first degree murder on May 17 and sentenced to death Claude Allen, his son, was tried on a charge of killing Judge Massie and convicted of murder in the second degree The jury recommended a sentence of fifteen years in the penitentiary The state demanded a new trial and a verdict of guilty in the first degree was returned on July 27 and he was sentenced to death.

Others Are Sentenced.

Friel Allen, pleaded guilty of murder in the second degree and on August 14 was sentenced to 18 years in prison Three days later Sidna Edwards peladed guilty to a like charge and was given a sentence of 16 years Victor Allen was acquitted of a charge of having participated in the murders

Sidna Allen brother of Floyd Allen and recognized leader of the clan, and his nephew Wesley Edwards eluded pursuit for many weeks and eventually escaped out of the Virginia mountains and made their way west They were captured at Des Moines, Iowa, Sept 14, as the result of a love affair of young Edwards A letter from him was lost by Maude Lorier of Mount Airy, N. C, and detectives followed its information and captured the two men.

Sidna Allen was placed on trial November 11 at Wytheville, Va. charged with the murder of Judge Massie.

Wholesale Grocery to Install A Cold Storage Plant

Carroll Brough Robinson & Gates yesterday let the contract for the installation of a complete system of cold storage in order to better care for their increasing business in the line of produce and green fruits The plant will consist of a room 30x60 feet on the main floor of their warehouse building and one of larger dimensions in the basement. The two will have a capacity of ten cars and will be as complete as it is possible to make them A 25 horse power gas engine will furnish the power and the cold air will be manufactured by a 50 ton ice machine of the York storage type The rooms will be completely ceiled with cork and cement

In this connection it is interesting to note the growth of the business of the Carroll-Brough Robinson & Gates Company since its inceptency in Wichita Falls three years ago Started at that time as a branch of the house at Oklahoma City it has grown almost beyond the parent house and last year alone more than doubled the business of the previous year an increase away beyond that enjoyed by either of the firm's other houses

The firm now has a corps of seven traveling salesmen who cover all of the territory contiguous to Wichita Falls and keep a force of 22 men employed in the offices and ware room An acreage of two cars of freight are received every day The company has all of its canned goods, coffees, spices etc packed expressly for them and to select the best stock for this purpose sends a member of the firm into the states where the best of each article is grown to personally select and supervise its packing. Of coffee alone, the firm receives a shipment of 5000 pounds or more each week, direct from the roasters and more than 100 000 cigars are sold every month

With the addition of the cold storage plant the firm will increase its business in the produce line, and make a bid for all kinds of business in the wholesale grocery line.

The success of the firm is due almost entirely to the efforts of the manager Mr F M Gates, who has worked early and late in season and out for the upbuilding of the project which he was instrumental in establishing in Wichita Falls, and it is his ambition to make it the largest wholesale grocery house n Northwest Texas.

The final passage into law of the married womens rights bill is a manument to the good work, the energy and the discretion of Mrs Hortense Ward of Houston who worked hard and faithfully in behalf of the bill. The new law gives to married women absolute control and disposal of all her personal property and the control and management of her separate real property, as well as absolute control and disposal of her personal earnings She cannot however, sell her realty or incumber it without joinder on the part of her husband unless she can show to the satisfaction of a district court that it is to her best interest so to do Her earnings, rentals and interest from money, dividends from stock, etc, are not subject to her husbands debts. In Texas there have not been many instances, we are glad for our sex s sake to say, in which this law was particularly needed But there have been enough cases of worthless husbands taking their wives' earnings for their own selfish purposes even in this chivalrous commonwealth to make the law necessary It's a good law and it gives married women the right to control and use the property that has always really belonged to them —Denton Record and Chronicle.

Bryan, as Secretary of State, is receiving some very fine compliments from some very big men just now, and are not from Democrats Here is what Oscar S Straus of New York said of him just before taking his departure for Europe Bryan has the vision of Jefferson and the diplomacy of Hay

The nine hour law passed by the legislature and also the law that gives to married women the right to handle their own individual property without being hampered by their husbands are good laws and for this much at least our present law-makers are to be commended

In a few days the new congress will convene, and then the American people will expect the Democratic party now in control of every branch of the National government to give them what it has pledged the people it would give—legislation that will tend to lower the prices on the necessaries of life and thereby reduce to some extent at least the cost of living This can be done, in the opinion of the greatest statesmen without materially injuring business interests or causing any panics It might make it so that capital will not be able to reap so great a profit, but capital can stand to take less The people who have trusted the Democrats did so because they were demanding a new deal all the way round If the Democrats prove faithful to their trust there need be no fear but that the people will continue that party in power There should be no side-stepping. The time for action is now at hand and the day for the American people to be frightened by threats of panics from the money kings is, or at least ought to be at an end

In the event the bill which has passed the legislature and which has for its purpose to prevent the emptying of sewers into running streams stands the final test and becomes a law it will mean that Wichita alls splendid sewerage system put in at great expense will be practically useless, or will have to be over hauled at great expense Doubtless there are many other cities in the same fix As the water in the Wichita river is not suitable for domestic purposes nor can it be used for irrigation it is difficult to see the good of such a law If there were towns or communities below where the sewerage is emptied into the river that used the water for any purpose it would then furnish an excuse for the passage of such a law As it is the passage of the law can only serve to prevent the pollution of the water in a river that is being put to about the only use it is fit for—that of carrying off refuse and waste from cities that are located on them

Every man should own his own home, it is not only better for him financially, but there is more pleasure in owning something rather than to be continuously paying rent This is more especially true if you happen to be located in a live wire city—like Wichita Falls, for instance, where rents are high and where property values never sell or change hands except at a substantial advance in price It has been doing that for the past six years, There is everything to indicate that it will continue to do so for the next five or six years. What s the use of a man paying out rents sufficient to buy a home and then allow his landlord to continue to hold the deed? Buy a home in Wichita Falls it is as safe an investment as you can make

It makes no difference to the Times whether the Agricultural and Mechanical College is merged into the State University or not but it does seem that as great and wealthy a state as Texas could well afford to levy a sufficient tax to maintain both institutions in a decent and respectable manner And again the Democrats of Texas through their authorized representatives in State convention at San Antonio recommended that the two institutions of learning should be kept separate and apart and the candidates who accepted nominations for office pledged themselves to carry out all platform demands or the will of the people as expressed in that convention To do away with the A & M college will not be keeping faith with Democratic platform demands If it is absolutely necessary to kill the A & M that the State University might live, it would be an entirely different proposition but the Times is persuaded that Texas people have not yet reached the point where state pride would allow or permit anything like that to occur so long as it is in their power to prevent it

His Silence.
(New York World)

These unctuous and edifying words appear in an editorial printed in the current issue of our pious contemporary, the Outlook

"Every American, therefore wishes —or ought to wish—well to the new administration Success to this administration will mean success to the country and what is no less important a new justification for the principle of self government. Every citizen can wish this administration well the more heartily because it is going to be tested by certain unusually difficult problems

While its mind is occupied with the subject, perhaps the Outlook can tell us just how much success its contributing editor has wished to the new administration

It is possible that Theodore Roosevelt has issued an appeal for popular support of the great principles not seen it anywhere in print. A great many persons who voted against Mr Wilson, republicans and progressives alike, have expressed sentiments similar to those of the Outlook Mr Taft himself cordially wished Mr Wilson success But not a word has come from the man who in the last twelve years has talked more about more different things than any other politician that ever lived

Not a lover said by Mr Roosevelt was more significant than his silence at this time Can the Outlook explain it?

The American Express Company will bill free of charge shipments of money and supplies for the relief of the Ohio, Indiana and Illinois flood sufferers when consigned to regularly authorized relief committees or municipal authorities If there are those in this city who wish to avail themselves of this generous offer, Mr C H Sturdivant the local agent will take pleasure in seeing that the best of attention is given all such shipments

In the distribution of the light in the business district, the Times believes it voices the sentiments of a [illegible] loves it voices the sentiment of a [illegible] suggests that a row of lights ought to extend on Seventh street from the business section to the court house It may be several years before more bonds are voted for street lights and this ought not to be overlooked at this time

The Northwest Texas Teachers' Association meeting finished its labors and adjourned after selecting Wichita Falls as the next place of meeting Wichita Falls people appreciate the compliment paid them by the teachers

The legislature has been asked by Governor Colquitt to submit an amendment to the State constitution authorizing the legislature to abolish the fee system and to fix the salaries for all officials, state county, district and precinct It is one request the governor has made that should be heeded by our law makers The fee system is not satisfying anyone hardly, except it be those who are directly benefitted In many instances the fee system, as now practiced in this state brings to the fortunate holders of the offices enormous compensation above all expenses of conducting the business of the offices, entirely out of reason, and this is one of the many objections urged against paying fees instead of straight salaries Another is that whether true or not, arrests are made in cases where officers are sure of receiving fat fees, and offenders of the law who are not likely to have the money to pay their fines, are permitted to go unnoticed Gov Colquitt's stand against the fee system with a question of doubt, meets with the hearty approval of most Texas people.

There are six candidates for aldermen and three of them are to be elected at the April election which is to be held Tuesday April 1 So far as the Times is aware none of them have given a public expression as to their views on questions that ought to be of interest to tax payers For instance it is the general understanding that certain franchises which according to state laws expire within twenty years after they are granted where no time limit is fixed will have to be renewed this year These same franchises are a considerable source of revenue to cities the size and importance of Wichita Falls, and in the judgment of some of our best and most conservative citizens the time for Wichita Falls to wake up along this line and fix a value on these franchises has arrived Our streets and alleys are kept up at public expense and those who make use of them should be willing to pay a reasonable compensation. This compensation is usually fixed by tax on annual gross income of corporations enjoying such privileges The Times offers a reasonable amount of space to each and every one of the six candidates for aldermen in which to state their views on such matters in Sunday's Times and trusts all of them will think it of sufficient importance to the tax-payers to give them.

The State Volunteer Firmen are to hold their annual meeting at Wichita Falls beginning May 13th and the people here will make the firemen feel they have made no mistake in their choice of cities.

Wichita Falls people responded very liberally to the cry of distress sent out from the Dayton, Ohio, flood sufferers, and had the situation been as bad as first reports indicated a more liberal response would have been made

The destruction of lives and property wrought by the floods in Ohio and Indiana during the past few days is said to be the greatest in the history of this country, excepting the Galveston storm, at which time more than 10 000 lives were snuffed out and the city almost completely destroyed An appeal for aid to the sufferers in that awful storm was issued and responded to most liberally by people in every part of the world Thousands of people have been left homeless and without food and clothing, and without means to secure same by the floods at Dayton, and other submerged cities in that vicinity They need assistance and President Wilson has asked that all who feel inclined to help these homeless people to act quickly and send their contributions The Times will forward all contributions to the Red Cross Society at Washington, D. C It is a worthy cause, and Texas people, more especially those who remember the Galveston affair, ought to respond liberally.

The Easter bonnet bills are due to arrive April 1. The hubby's day begin now to hund up their loose change They are likely to be just a fraction larger than those of Easter one year ago

An election has been called in Taylor county, to vote $150,000 bonds for the erection of a new court house and jail at Abilene As a counter proposition the citizens of Buffalo Gap will ask that the county seat be moved to that place Buffalo Gap is a hamlet of only a few hundred souls The proposed bond issue is vigorously opposed there

Taylor county, in which Abilene is the county seat, is soon to vote upon the proposition of construction of a new court house, and from the way the Daily Reporter puts it, a new court house is needed badly The one now being used is dangerous and the Judge who holds court in it says he will consider it good grounds to excuse any man from jury service who will plead that he is afraid of endangering his life by going in to the building Under such circumstances it would appear to an outsider that there should be little, if any opposition to the proposition, unless there is a desire to kill off the officials.

The Examiner does not wish to be sensational or be placed in an embarrassing attitude by having its veracity questioned, but it becomes our duty to report that our cash drawer was robbed of $12 10 last Friday night The party who did the work pryed open our front door He must have been a wise guy not because he was an expert on lock manipulation but because he was aware of the fact that the Examiner readers are paying up rapidly and notwithstanding we are paying it out to our creditors about as fast as it comes in it so happened we had $12 10 left over from a good day's work We feel hurt because he did not leave us the 10 cents as a 'nest-egg In our twenty seven years work in the newspaper business this is the first time we have been robbed We believe that it is an experience that even Joe Taylor, the man who got "miffed' at the Dallas police has never "enjoyed' Our latchstring was not disturbed Come again—McKinney Examiner

It might be that the Examiner's cash drawer was robbed, but it s going to convince the average newspaper to take more proof than the above man that the amount was so large The idea of a newspaper man having as much as $12 10 left over after a day s run We're still registering from Missouri

TWO SIDES OF QUESTION

As usual, there are two sides to the Texas patronage question The Thomas Campbell side is that Texas congressmen not friendly to Wilson nor to the Wilson shouters, are discriminating against the dominant element of the party and are handing out the rewards to those who fought the successful candidate and his policies Mr Campbell urges that the man who was faithful and who was responsible for the turn of the tide in the Wilson favor should not be thus punished for that allegiance The other side of the controversy is that the congressmen indicated have accepted the verdict and are now as good democrats as anybody and are helping along the Wilson and progressive movements. They claim the right to appoint whom they please and they urge that if the democratic party is to make good, one element must not discriminate the other element They urge that their favored appointees are just as good democrats as the 'originals.' The shrewd wisdom of the president is taxed to protect his real friends and at the same time hold the allegiance of those others who accepted the verdict and are now working shoulder to shoulder for triumph of of democratic policeies —Temple Telegram

President Wilson, doubtless, will be able to figure out a plan that should meet with approval of all Democrats It is all right for the congressman to be consulted when appointments are to be made, and doubtless this will be done. If the congressmen are inclined to do the right thing and are sincere in their desire to keep down party rows, they will recommend for appointment to federal office in counties that were carried for Wilson, men who worked and helped to bring about such a result, and in counties that were carried for Clark, men who were known as Clark men, and who were not afraid to champion the cause of their favorite, and the same recognition should be given the friends of Harmon and Underwood They are all good Democrats No one who is fair could offer objection to such a plan of distributing the favors In that way, each faction of the party would receive all the recognition of its strength as shown on the test at the presidential preferential primary would entitle it to

A great deal has been said of the Webb liquor law, passed in congress over President Taft's veto, but there are many who do not know its provisions, and for the benefit of its readers the Times reproduces the bill as it came from Congress, and which is now a law and out to be enforced, even if it is not!

"Be it enacted, etc. That the shipment or transportation in any manner or by any means whatsoever of any spirituous, vinous, malted, fermented, or other intoxicating liquor of any kind from one state, territory, or district of the United States or place non contiguous to but subject to the jurisdiction thereof, into any other state, territory, or district of the United States, or place noncontiguous to, but subject to the jurisdiction thereof, or from any foreign country into any state, territory, or district of the United tates, or place noncontiguous to, but subject to the jurisdiction thereof, which said spirituous vinous, malted, fermented or other intoxicating liquor is intended by any person interested therein to be received, possessed, sold or in any manner used either in the original package or otherwise in violation of any law of such state, territory, or district of the United tates or place noncontiguous to but subject to the jurisdiction thereof, is hereby prohibited"

APPOINTING AMBASSADORS

President Wilson is no doubt having trouble in finding suitable foreign ministers For an American Ambassador is usually a man chosen to go abroad and spend $100,000 out of his own pocket in behalf of the people who hired him

European courts expect the American to spend freely They want him to maintain a courting parlor where impecunious noblemen can meet marketable heiresses under the proper chaperonage To conciliate the higherups of foreign diplomacy the most expensive provision of wines, dinners, and flunkeys becomes necessary

One great trouble with American diplomacy is that it is regarded as an incident in a man's career, rather than a permanency after the European manner

Some more or less astonished American rises some morning to find himself appointed He hustles down to Washington where he receives the intimate inside of delicate international negotiations. Being a believer in publicity, he lets it out before he gets to the steamship wharf The result is much as when your young son proclaims at the evening party what you said about your neighbors at the breakfast table.

Some of the ministers live in palaces, furnished out of their own pocket Others dependent upon the government salary, who were sent aboard on such minor considerations as experience in statecraft and knowledge of international policies, are housed much like the representative of a tail end Balkan power

So it is not surprising that a noted statesman, being informed that the government wanted to make him ambassador, emphatically remarked, "No plush pants for me" Others are more yielding They depart amid the unanimous acclaim of the American people, "Darn the expense and let George do it"—Paris Advocate

Take the A & M. College and the State University out of politics and make them two separate and distinct institutions, and make them the leading institutions of their class in the world. The talk of combining the two institutions, if carried out, is tantamount to abolishing one of them, and practically ruining both of them—Sherman Democrat

The average newspaper man is generally looked upon as one who is able to write a poem weigh corn, discuss the tariff, umpire a ball game, preach the gospel, beat a lawyer report a wedding saw wood describe a fire make one dollar do the work of ten shine at soirees address a horticultural society measure calico abuse the liquor habit—both ways—subscribe to charity go without meals, attack free silver, defend bimentalism, sneer the snobbery, wear diamonds invent advertisements overlook scandal praise prize babies, administer to the afflicted, heal the disgruntled, fight to the finish, set type mold opinion, scorn the flesh and the devil be everything, see everything, all at a small salary and support a family—Weatherford Democrat

There are only a few, however, who do all these things That used to be the way Now it is different Most editors now ride down to their offices in their electric motor cars, do a few stunts around the office and then back to their homes are out in the country for a short spin That kind of eidtors are the ones who succeed financially The fellow who works from sunrise to sunset and then some, are the ones the Democrat has reference to They are getting to be back numbers, though the papers they edit and whose destinies they preside over show their worth The real newspaper man—the man who knows the game, will make personal sacrifices that his sheet may present a respectable appearance rather than take from the business the earnings and invest them in the purchase of "glad rags' that make the editor shine in the public eye And, strange as it may seem, that kind of newspaper men seem to prosper and get through the world better than the other kind

TO PREVENT WASTE OF NATURAL GAS

Representative E. P Haney has succeeded in putting through a bill that will tend to preserve the natural gas supply, as will be noted, by the following letter from Mr. Haney, and a copy of the bill that will become a law with the signature of Governor Colquitt

Austin, Texas, March 31st, 1913.—Editor Times. In response to a telegram from Mr R E Huff, President Wichita Fals Chamber of Commerce, on the 21st inst, stating that the Chamber of Commerce of Wichita Falls and the citizenship of the towns that are interested in conserving the gas of the Petrolia oil and gas fields, and stating further that a company is permitting a gas well to run wild in the Petrolia fields and thereby causing a waste of several million cubic feet of gas per day, and asking for immediate relief, I beg to state that I have put through both houses House Bill No 887, a copy of which I herewith enclose, and the bill will go to the Governor this afternoon for his approval.

Under the present law it is only a $100 00 fine to wilfully permit a gas well to run wild. Under this bill you will note that a penalty of $300 00 per day, each day a separate offense, is prescribed Also, owners of adjacent property may plug the well This will undoubtedly give the relief demanded and as the bill will go into effect immediately upon being signed by the Governor, you may state to those who are interested that they may then proceed to have the well in question properly kept.

Very truly yours
EDGAR P HANEY

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas

Section 1 That Article 7849 of Title 134, Revised Civil Statutes of 1911 be amended so as to read as follows

Article 7849 Any person, co-partnership or corporation in possession, either as owner lessee agent or manager of any well producing natural gas in order to prevent the said gas from wasting by escape, shall within ten days after penetrating the gas bearing rock in any well hereafter drilled, shut in and confine the gas in said well until and during such time as the gas therein shall be utilized for light or fuel or power; provided that this shall not apply to any well that is operated for oil Any person violating the provisions of this article shall be liable to a penalty of not less than $300 for each offense to be recovered with the costs of suit, in a civil action in the name of the State of Texas in any court of competent jurisdiction in the county in which the act shall be committed or omitted and each day such violation continues shall be considered a separate offense Such suit may be brought at the instance of any resident of the State of Texas, without security or liability of cost The amount of said penalty, when collected shall be paid one-half into the school fund of the county in which said suit is brought and one-half to said person at whose instance said suit shall be brought.

Sec 2 That said Chapter 1 Title 134 of the Revised Civil Statutes of 1911 be amended by adding thereto Article 7854a. to read as follows

Article 7854a If the owner of any such well shall neglect or refuse to cause said well to be plugged or shut in as herein provided for a period of twenty days after a written notice to do so (which notice may be served personally upon such owner or may be posted in a conspicuous place at or near the well) it shall be lawful for the owner or operator of any adjacent or neighboring lands to enter upon the premises where said well is situate and to cause the same to be plugged if it be an abandoned well, or shut in if not abandoned, pursuant to the provisions hereof; and the reasonable cost and expense incurred in so doing shall be paid by the owner of said well, and may be recovered as debts of like amount are by law recoverable

Sec 3 That Chapter 1, Title 134, of the Revised Civil Statutes of 1911, be further amended by adding thereto Article 7854b, to read as follows

Article 7854b Aside from and in addition to the penalties provided in this chapter, it shall be the duty of any district judge, whether in term time or vacation, to hear and determine any petition which may be filed to restrain the waste of natural gas in violation of this Act and to issue such mandatory or restraining orders as may, in his judgment be necessary Such petition may be filed by any citizen of the State of Texas, and the same need allege no further financial interest than the petitioner possesses in common with all other citizens of the State in the natural resources thereof

Sec 4 The fact that the natural gas resources of the State are being wasted, together with the crowded condition of the calendar and the near approach of the end of the session, create an emergency and an urgent public necessity that the constitutional rule requiring that bills be read on three several days be suspended and that this Act take effect and be in force from and after its passage, and it is so enacted

There are rumors to the effect that there is a feeling of jealousy existing between Provisional President Huerta of Mexico and Gen Felix Diaz and that any day may bring on hostilities between the two that will result in such an affair as was pulled off which resulted in the assassination of President Madero and Vice President Suarez. Huerta and Diaz are more responsible for that cowardly and disgraceful affair than all others, and there would be little sympathy in this country expressed for either should both meet with the same fate as Madero

The vote in the aldermanic election in this city yesterday was exceeding ly a light one, which indicates the amount of interest there was in it. As the three aldermen whose terms expire were re-elected, there will be no change in the personel of the board

NEW COMPLETIONS AROUND ELECTRA

SEVERAL GOOD WELLS DURING PAST WEEK—BORCHELDT HAS NEW PRODUCER

WORK IN ARCHER COUNTY

Corsicana Company Makes Two New Locations—Other News From Oil Field

Several good completions in the Electra field the past week have further boosted the production figures and some new pay outside the proven field has also served to stimulate activity. The new production includes Producers No 16, second Bywaters tract, 500 barrels; Red River No. 13 Bywaters, 30 barrels; Guffey No. 18 Millet, 250 barrels; Corsicana No. 1 W. B. Hoggsker 75 barrels. The last named is one location from the Hardenburg-Webb well and makes things look better in the far eastern extension of the Electra district. It was drilled in at 1580 feet. Miller No. 18 missed the shallower sands, but started off at 300 barrels in the deep pay and is easily in the 250 barrel class. The Producers latest completion on the second Bywaters property makes that tract one of the cream pieces of the field, as this is the third well of that class to be drilled in. The Producers planked down $105,000 in cash for this piece of land.

Clint Woods completed his well on his Borcheldt lease, west of the Interstate holdings, in the deepest sand and it is good for better than 150 barrels This completion gives a decidedly improved appearance to that section of the Burkburnett field, especially since the wells in that vicinity are holding up much better than those in the Schmocker neighborhood

J A Kemp and others have made location for a well on the Daniels farm, southwest of Burkburnett and west of the Roller properties Drilling will be started at once by C T Paul

R. H. Whitney, who is Wichita Falls correspondent for the Oil & Gas Journal and the Oil City Derrick, is the father of a ten pound boy which arrived at his home last week.

And Archer is not yet dead The Corsicana last week made locations for two new wells on the Dr. Miller and Archer Oil Company s property southwest of the other wells, and work will be started at once Dr Miller has been insisting for some time that more work would be done in that section and he apparently was correct Work will be started at once.

Both the Guffey's No 3 and Ed Morgan's No 1 missed the 1050 sand on the Crow lease and are being drilled deeper. The Guffey has one small well on this tract but three wells drilled since then have found nothing

Across the river the Northwest Electra's Finley well is 1960 feet, the Burt Switch well is 850 feet deep and the North Fork Oil Company's well near Davidson is 170 feet.

T T Reese and others are drilling with a star rig on the Munden farm near Iowa Park, in addition to their standard rig The latter encountered some shallow sands that looked good enough to explore

LEGISLATURE IS AFTER MORE PAY

BOTH HOUSES VOTE TO SUBMIT AMENDMENT—FEE BILL GOES TO GOVERNOR

MAY CHANGE HOME RULE

Colquitt Asks that Initiative, Referendum and Recall Be Taken Out —Other Bills

Special to The Times.

Austin, Texas, March 29.—Both Houses of the Legislature found time in the closing days of the session to adopt a resolution submitting a constitutional amendment to raise legislators salaries to $2000 for the first year and $5 per day for extra sessions the second year.

Other features of today's session including a message from the governor asking that the initiative, referendum and recall be eliminated from the home rule bill and the defeat of two proposed constitutional amendments. Both Houses held night sessions.

The Senate passed the Burgess-Glasscock general irrigation bill tonight after adopting House amendments with the addition of minor Senate amendments. The general bill does not place the prior appropriation claims over riparian rights as the original bill did, but abolished the appropriation as far as storm waters are concerned. The first House amendment to the bill abolished the theory of the engineering board to recognize the claims of riparian rights owners above those of prior appropriation claimants. The nine hour law was finally passed in the Senate, after a fight going over the greater part of the day.

Bills, signed by the governor this afternoon include the House bill creating a State bureau of child and animal protection, the House penitentiary bond bill authorizing the issuance of two million dollars of penitentiary bonds, the bill authorizing the purchase of La Bahia mission near Goliad, and the bill requiring charges to the jury to be given before argument.

F. N. and K. Defeated.

For the second time the House has declined to adopt the Vaughan Senate joint resolution submitting the amendment to the Constitution providing for the initiative and referendum. On motion of Representative Tarver, the vote by which the resolution was defeated some time ago was reconsidered and the resolution again brought before the House for consideration. This required a call of the House in order to maintain a quorum. Without any extended debate the House defeated the resolution by a vote of 88 to 38. In order for the resolution to prevail it should have had two thirds or 95 votes.

The House passed to third reading the Gibson State bill providing for the abolishment of the State insurance board law and for the creation of the State insurance commission. After an amendment had been defeated to substitute the bill providing for the unconditional repeal of the present law, an amendment was adopted increasing the appropriation for the support of the commission. The bill will pass finally.

The free conference committee report on the Ussery pistol "toting" bill was adopted in the House and Senate and as finally enacted the bill makes it a misdemeanor for the first offense punishable by a fine of $100 to $500 and for the second offense the jury may return a verdict for a felony with one to three years in the penitentiary.

Chas. B. Burkes, sergeant at arms of the House, resigned, having been appointed chief deputy United States Marshall for the Western district of Texas. The House elected W. L. Escavalle, present assistant sergeant at arms to fill the vacancy and Clinton Archer of Bell county was elected to fill the post of Mr. Escavlle.

Fee Bill Amended.

An important amendment was taken on the House anti-fee bill passed today in the Senate. The amendment strikes out that provision which allowed county commissioners in counties of 100,000 or over a salary of $200. This would affect Bexar, Harris, Tarrant and Dallas counties. While the House was under call on the initiative and referendum resolution by unanimous consent the House took and passed finally the following:

By Householder and Glasscock, experiment station for the lower Rio Grande Valley and a batch of other bills of minor importance all of which now go to the Senate for action.

The Senate at tonight's session killed the Senate joint resolution providing for an amendment to the Constitution which sought to exempt cotton mills from taxation for a period of fifteen years.

The Senate also passed to engrossment the McDaniel House bill providing for verified pleadings. The Senate also adopted the House amendments to the Senate joint resolution providing for salaries of members of the legislature by a vote of 23 to one. This means this resolution will be submitted to a vote of the people. It provides a salary of $1,200 for the first year and $5 per day for sessions held during the second year.

Night Sessions Held.

At tonight's session of the House passtd the Bailey Senate bill providing that corporations may borrow money in excess of their capitol stock to build. The House also adopted the Senate amendments to the Burgess-Glasscock general irrigation bill. The bill now goes to the governor for his signature.

The governor tonight sent a message to the House in which he suggests the recall of the enabling act and that initiative, referndum and recall feature be eliminated as he objects to these provisions. The House took no action on the message, but may act on Monday.

The House adopted the free conference committee report on the wife abandonment bill also on the Haney House bill establishing a State training school for delinquent girls on the cottage plan; also on the Warren Senate bill extending the time to September 1, 1913 in which delinquent corporations may pay their franchise taxes. The House also passed finally the Nugent anti-hazing bill which now goes to the governor for approval.

The free conference committee on the Congressional redistricting bill has not as yet reached an agreement on a bill, at least nothing has been given out by any member of the committee which would indicate that the committee has agreed. It is believed that the committee may present a bill the last thing before the session ends next week.

Passes Separation Bill.

The Senate proceeded very slowly at its morning session. It adopted finally the House resolution or a constitutional amendment separating the University and A. & M. College and providing a permanent maintenance tax for the several state institutions. This resolution, however, was so amended that it will probably have to go to conference. The House passed finally the oHue asnti-fee bill placing county officers as nearly on a salary basis as is possible under the Attorney General's ruling that a straight salary for some officers is unconstitutional.

The Senate also finally passed the Senate bill correcting a bill which had previously passed, providing that interurban railroads may own union stations and office buildings and may erect such buildings. It also finally passed the Senate bill authorizing railroads to own demonstration farms, orchards and gardens and the House bill for redemption of land sold the state and cities for taxes.

The Senate passed the House farm county road law. It then took up the general irrigation bill and adopted an important amendment to that measure providing that the appropriation of water for development purposes shall be secondary to the appropriation of water for irrigation.

Increasing Member's Pay.

The House today adopted a joint resolution for a constitutional amendment to increase pay of legislators to $1200 a year for the first year and $5 a day for any called sessions of the second year of their term. Before this action, the plan for giving the legislators more money had been offered and the debate on each centered in the question "will the people stand for it."

The question came up under a special order for Allison's joint resolution proposing to give legislators $10 a day for ninety days and $5 a day thereafter. Tarver offered a substitute to pay $1200 the first year and $5 a day for extra sessions in the second year. Nugent submitted a joint resolution fixing the salary for two years at $200 of which $1500 would be paid the first year, which was taken up with the othir two, but the Tarver substitute was adopted, 73 to 25 and then the resolution as substituted was adopted 101 to 22.

Sick Member's Expenses.

The House adopted a resolution to pay the expenses of its sick members. A resolution was then introduced pointing out what the House considered an exorbitant charge by physicians who attended Representative Herder of Weirmer who has been ill for two months. The bill was $3435.55; this was an average of about $100 per visit. It met a cold reception, and it was declared unreasonable; the House asked Dr. J. C. McLaughlin and State Health Officer Steiner to confer with the physician who submitted the bill regarding a compromise.

The House adopted a resolution by Chresman that the joint committee of House and Senate appointed to investigate the financial condition of the penitentiary system shall not begin investigation unless there shall be no extra session immediately after adjournment April 1. If there is no extra session the committee will begin work next week. As the original committee members have been unable to take up this penitentiary investigation work because of the rush of legislation, Lisewelling offered a resolution to take the appointment of members of this committee out of the speaker's hands and for the House to appoint them. This resolution was defeated.

Cotton Brokers Exempted.

The House finally passed the Savage bill to add $10,000 to the legislative contingent expense fund. Representative Mendell, speaking on a question of personal privilege, read a letter to show that statements he made in his speech Friday night were correct as to the A. & M. authorities being willing that the feed inspection work should be removed to Austin. The House adopted a resolution to exempt cotton brokers from the effect of the commission merchants' bill. It directed the enrolling clerk to strike out the word cotton wherever it appeared and insert a paragraph exempting cotton men from the law.

The Senate bill by Bailey validating issues of stock of corporations prior to the act of 1911 was passed finally. Terrell's bill to create a special district court for McLennan county, to expire in December, 1914, was passed finally. The House then recessed until 2 p. m.

THIS IS CERTAIN

The Proof That Wichita Falls Readers Cannot Deny

What could furnish stronger evidence of the efficiency of any remedy than the test of time? Thousands of people testify that Doan's Kidney Pills have brought lasting results.

Home endorsement should prove undoubtedly the merit of this remedy. Years ago your friends and neighbors testified to the relief they had derived from the use of Doan's Kidney Pills. They now confirm their testimonials. They say time has completed the test.

P. W. Nolen, 1100 Indiana St., Wichita Falls, Texas, says: "I got Doan's Kidney Pills at Hawkins's Drug Store and was relieved of pains across my kidneys that had made every move one of misery. In the morning the trouble was worse. Doan's Kidney Pills relieved me and I consider them a fine remedy for regulating the kidney action and removing trouble with the kidney secretions. I willingly confirm the testimonial I gave some years ago."

LIVED ON RAW EGGS

Mr. Richard's Experience With Different Diets. Peaches and Buttermilk for Three Years.

Cecilton, Md.—Mr. George Richards, of this place, during the past 12 years has probably tried more different diets than the average person would ever use in a lifetime.

What he has to say about his experiments, must therefore be highly interesting to anyone suffering from indigestion or stomach troubles of any kind.

He says: "For more than 12 years, I suffered with stomach troubles, and paid hundreds of dollars for doctor bills and medicines. I was also operated on for piles.

I lived on dried peaches and buttermilk for nearly three years. The only thing that would not give me pain was raw eggs.

I was a physical wreck. I could not sleep, and was as near crazy as a man could well be.

I must say that after taking two 25-cent packages of Thedford's Black-Draught, it did me more good than all I ever spent for other medicines.

I have been working daily on the farm ever since, and I am as hard as iron." This purely vegetable remedy has been in successful use for more than 70 years. Try it. But be sure that it's "Thedford's."

WHY YOU NEED LIFE INSURANCE

BECAUSE—

Life is uncertain and your family or business interests would suffer by your death.

You would dislike to have your income stopped today and your family would dislike it quite as much. Life Insurance cannot keep you alive, but it can containue part of your income to them.

If you know that your family is properly protected your peace of mind on that subject will give you more power in your business.

A Wichita Southern Life Policy will improve your credit and enhance your importance as a solid citizen.

If you are rich, a Wichita Southern Life Policy will provide ready money at your death, and save your estate from hasty and unprofitable realization.

If you are poor, a Wichita Southern policy will pay your debts and stand between your family and want.

If you are making more money than you need, you ought to put some of it by in a safe place, and there is nothing in the Commercial World so safe as an Old Line Life Insurance Company.

If you need almost every dollar of your income now, the chances are your family will still need it after your death and there isn't any way you can earn it for them then.

Insurance guarantees in a moment an income to your family after your death which you could hardly obtain by a lifetime of toil and economy.

It is your wife and family that takes the risk if you don't insure. It is they who will suffer by your death.

If you do not need insuranec protection after twenty years, you can surrender the policy for a large amount in cash.

It is so difficult to save money in any other way.

Friday Afternoon's Session.

The meeting opened with a very interesting reading by Mrs Christensen chairman of the Peace Movement of the Federation of Women's Clubs and honorary vice president of the International Peace Forum in Texas on the horrors of war and the blessings of peace She spoke of the losses of lives and of money of the sorrows and anguish of widowed mothers and of orphan children, all caused by the atrocities of war Reference was made to the present reign of terror in Mexico and in the Balkan States caused by war The money that is spent in this way she stated, would enable us to establish many institutions for the betterment of mankind A resolution was then read and adopted by the association which stated that it was the sense of this body of teachers that plans sohuld be undertaken whereby war may be ultimately abolished and all national difficulties solved by courts of arbitration

Prof. Stafford of the Canyon City Normal in the absence of Hon R B Cousins, read a paper on "Professional Training' for teachers In his address he said that it should not be necessary to talk on such a subject before a body of teachers, that it ought to be axiomatic that teachers need professional training for their work just as the lawyer, the doctor, or the minister needs training for his calling The teacher should be trained in a practical as well as a theoretical way The professional school must have ample labratory facilities that the teachers may be trained objectively as well as subjectively. Just as in the early history of the Hebrew race it required the services of priests to train other priests likewise at this modern day, the teachers of the secondary schools must come into personal touch with the inspiration of the professors of the professional schools if efficient results are to be accomplished Teaching is a sacred calling; and it is the height of folly for any one to undertake to teach without first having been trained. The untrained teacher may after a few years' service acquire a certain degree of skill, but it is after he has married many characters in his experiments

Prof W. A. Matthews of Vernon spoke on Legislation inside the State He emphasized the necessity of the schools giving adequate training in agriculture that the farmers may be made more contended and happier in their situations. The rural school houses, the playgrounds and the qualifications should measure up with those of the cities The improvement of rural conditions must come about through consolidation He called attention to the legislation of the Thirty second Legislature which provided for county boards of trustees the consolidation of rural schools the classification of such schools into a graded system, and the prescription of courses of study for such schools "About the same time was placed under the ban the third grade teachers' certificate a piece of merchandise that should have been absolute twenty five years ago' About this time provision was made for the county supervision of schools. The old method of this work being done by the county judge was very inefficient and unsatisfactory The county superintendent should be school men of ripe experience and not politicians Because of his time and labor and money spent in preparation the county superintendent should be paid a larger salary than any other county officer whereas now he receives less than any of them The county superintendent should be appointed by a county board to avoid political entanglements of any kind The county board should be a continuous one, not elected every year The county superintendent should be provided with a secretary that the former may devote all his time to professional service

Miss Leida Lee of Childress, read a paper on the discussion of pedagogics as a business The representative of the Texas School Journal asked permission to print it in the Journal She said that teaching should be regarded both as a business and as a profession in that it is to make a livelihood and to render service The reason why teachers do not take their proper standing in the commercial and professional world is because teachers in the beginning and now do not consider it as such, many regard it as a sort of makeshift and take no thought of the preparation necessary for right teaching Again boards of trustees select teachers not because of their qualifications but because of the cheapness of salary for which they will work Pedagogics is coming to be regarded, not as a child's play, a something which any one can do but as a serious work demanding well trained teachers physically as well as mentally A business is known by the results accomplished the same is true with reference to teaching 'We need to keep banking hours to work, to be up to date progressive, live citizens' We need to teach much more than there is in the text books, the reason why we do not havt our position in the community, socially and economically, is because we do not use enough gray matter "It is hard for an empty sack to stand upright. There's no reaping without sowing and fellow teachers, the soil has become so stony and choked with weeds, that there will be several sowings before we will do much reaping"

WINTER TERM EXAMS OVER

UNIVERSITY OF TEXAS STUDENTS NOW HAVING COMPARATIVELY EASY TIME

LETTER FROM UNIVERSITY

Student There Gives Advice to High School Students Intending to matriculate

(By Jerome Stone)

Winter term examinations at the University of Texas having been finished not long ago, those students who were so fortunate as to pass in at lof their courses have been enjoying a comparatively easy time during the last few days Interest in the bare-fist fight has temporarily subsided, several games have been played by the baseball team, one track meet has already been held, tennis enthusiasts may be seen on the courts every afternoon except Sunday, mid term, quizzes are yet some days in the future and the weather has reached that point where breezes neither too cold nor too warm blow softly over the campus which for some days now has been covered with green grass and blooming flowers.

However, such rare although highly desirable combinations of circumstances probably fail to appeal to the large number of students who to use current expression 'busted out' during the winter term just ended Dr H Y Benedict, dean of the academic department, has posted in the corridors of the main building the names of more than one hundred students of the academic department who failed to pass in enough courses during the winter term to remain in school. The number does not include members of the engineering and law departments and does not show what per cent were freshmen and what per cent were sophomores and upper classmen Practically all of the students who 'bust out" are sent home but sometimes a few are given a chance to redeem themselves and are allowed to attend classes on condition that they raise their grades within one moonths' time

The fact that so many students are compelled to leave school each term because of low scholastic standing should not be thought to indicate that those students have not spent much time on their work, for the contrary is generally the case students fail because of many reasons, chief among which is lack of proper training before entering the university

The University of Texas ranks among the first educational institutions of the country and members of the faculty take good care to provide that students always toe the mark in scholarship requirements The result is that many studints are unable to keep up the pace and are consequently required to leave the university All high school students who intend to enter college should be careful to make the most of their time while in high school and should lern how to study before entering the university because in these ways they will avoid much future trouble

In accordance with established precedent here the annual class track meet was held on Clark Field a few days ago in order not only to determine the champion class of the university but for the purpose of making preliminary selection of those men who will probably compose this year's track team The meet resulted in a complete victory for the sophomore class and some very promising material for the Varsity track team was discovered Prominent among this material was Ralph Mathis of Wichita Falls about whom the "Texan' has the following to say "Mathis won first place in the mile and half run and ran on the winning relay and shuttle teams His time on the mile was fourteen seconds better than was made this time last year Unless all signs fail, Ralph Mathis is to be one of the best distance men that Texas has ever produced'

Coach C C Taylor, of the track team has announced that five meets will be held this year and that the team will make at least one extended trip. In about three weeks this team will go to Stillwater, Okla, for a meet with Oklahoma A & M, after which a trip will be made to Norman to compete with the track team of the University of Oklahoma. At this moment it seems practically certain that at least one Wichita Falls boy will be a member of the squad and will be taken along on the trip

Not only have university people have interested in track work during the last few days, many of them have also become baseball enthusiasts. Four or five games have already been played and Varsity is developing much baseball "pep" considering the short time since the team began to train The New York Giants have played several games in Austin and athletically inclined students have taken a great deal of interest in James Thorp, the world's for a place on the Giants team Mattheson and McGraw have also come in for their full share of attention and it was with regret that the students saw the team for the last time Wednesday when after defeating the Austin League team, McGraw took his men back to San Antonio.

In addition to track and baseball, just at the present time there seems to be a great deal of discussion concerning whether or not it is desirable to change the university paper, known as the 'Texan' from a semi weekly to a daily newspaper There are plenty of advocates for both sides of the question and it is likely that a student mass meeting will be called in a few days to consider the proposition and to decide definitely concerning the question It seems likely that a daily Texan will be established

Another matter that is likely to demand attention in the near future is the question of consolidating the University of Texas with the A. & M College. It seems to be the general consensus of opinion here that the measure would operate for the best interests of the university, but it is known, however, that the A & M students are opposing such a step and in all quarters much doubt exists concerning the probable attitude of the legislature on the por position.

Some of those who are in favor of the consolidation urge that it is only a matter of a short time onlil it will be necessary to move the university to a larger campus They point out that near the Austin Dam is located four hundred acres of land donated to the university by Col G W Breckenridge of San Antonio and should Texas and A & M, be consolidated, this land would offer an ideal location for the united schools The present campus and architecture of the university could be devoted to other state purposes than education for the state is said to be badly in need of more buildings at the present time It is understood that Col Brackenridge will present the university with three million dollars in cash on condition that the insitution be moved to the land near the Austin Dam which he gave to the school

It is more than probable that the university would have been moved before this time but for the fact that the business interests of many of the people of Austin would suffer by such a step Business houses have been constructed, fraternity houses have been bought and paid for, people have built residences near the university. pavement has been laid in the vicinity these and many other expensive improvements will always furnish good argument for those who are opposed to moving the university to a larger site At present the school is situated on a campus of forty acres, whereas other colleges have grounds three four and even five times as large

Although university politics did not occupy much attention last week all indications point to the fact that for several weeks in the future politics will play a most important part in Varsity affairs. A number of candidates have already announced for office and are making active campaign for votes, but at the present time it is too early to forecast with any degree of accuracy who will be elected and who will not. Among the offices which will be filled by popular student election are. Editor in Chief managing editor; business manager assistant business manager of Texan.

At a recent mass meeting of university citizens it was decided to present the university with some token of good feeling. Steps were accordingly taken looking towards the construction of a sidewalk around the campus, a length of one mile Work on this sidewalk has already begun and by the end of the spring term a cement walk costing more than $6000 will have been laid entirely around the campus.

TARIFF BILL AGREED UPON

FREE WOOL AND LOW DUTY ON SUGAR WILL BE PROVIDED

INCOME TAX BILL RATES

Estimated $30,000,000 Loss in Revenues Will Be Made Up By New Tax

By Associated Press.

Washington, April 4.—With President Wilson and House leaders practically agreed upon free wool and duty of practically one cent per pound on sugar until free sugar can be realized members of the Ways and Means committee of the House this afternoon began to compile their report for a new tariff bill.

The reduction in revenue that will follow the new measure is estimated at $30,000,000 annually. The revenue from the proposed income tax measure is estimated at the same amount.

The income tax bill provides the following rates: On incomes from $4,000 to $20,000, a tax of one per cent; from $20,000 to $50,000, two per cent; from $50,000 to $100,000, three per cent. All over $100,000, four per cent. On corporations a flat tax of two per cent is proposed.

By Associated Press

Washington, April 4.—While President Wilson would like to see free sugar he recognizes that concessions may be necessary, and it is said he will consent to a duty of practically one cent a pound on raw sugar, provided free sugar can be made effective in three years

If the president can arrive at an agreement with the Louisiana planters on the sugar schedule it is believed there will be enough votes to pass wool and on practically all other schedules there is agreement between the president and leaders in Congress.

The president has been told, however, by House members that there will not be sufficient votes for either free wool or free sugar

This was the status today of tariff matters developed at an informal conference between the president and House members

CORSETS IN THE DISCARD

Unwhalebboned Girl, French and Fetching, Now the Rage at Capital Smart Dances.

Conservatives in Washington society, who hold that the cigaret smoking, bunny hugging women are sending society to the bowwows, have another tune to set their wail now. It is the uncorsetted girl. She arrived in single file last winter; this season she has come in full battalions.

It is French and fetching to discard the ingirding stays. Besides, only very slender, youthful persons dare to take up the innovation, so the innocent little debutantes very decidedly have "put one over," on their sisters of several seasons ago.

At the Draper costume ball the other night, the Eighteenth Century French court costumes, with their rigid whaleboning and their general bouffant effect, made the corset a negligible affair. Negligible also have the products of the corsetierre been at most of the smart dances given this winter.

The first girl to appear uncorseted at a dance created a mild sensation, but so materially did her innovation enhance her career as a belle that the subsequent dances were remarkable for the number of girls who had taken up the "back to nature" idea.

The prevailing style of frock, with its high-waisted effect and its female air of languishment makes the newest "dress reform" idea possible. One after another the youthful damsels have cast aside the artificial form and nobody seems to care a jot how the elders shriek.

Significant Sign.

A neat sign in fine gilt letters spelling the word "Exit" has been placed conspicuously above the revolving doors on the senate side of the Capitol.

"What is that sign for?" inquired a sad-looking stranger of one of the policemen.

"That's to show the Republican employes of the senate the way out of the building after March 4," replied the officer without grinning.

Morgan Speaks Politely.

J. Pierpont Morgan, the New York financier, agrees that gifts are not always appreciated. While in Washington attending the Pujo money trust investigation as a witness he was accosted by Miss Ida Hinman.

"I do not think that those to whom you give your money, or those to whom other rich men make donations, appreciate your giving," said Miss Hinman.

"I thank you," exclaimed Mr. Morgan, as though he appreciated the sympathy. "I think you may be right and I appreciate what you say."

Always Aggravating.

When a man loses because he failed to act in accordance with his convictions he feels doubly aggrieved if he cannot blame it on his wife.

DRILLERS TO PLAY DURANT THREE GAMES

First Opportunity to Compare the Strength of Local Team Will Come Sunday

The first chance to compare the Drillers with any other Texas-Oklahoma league team will be afforded the fans Sunday, Monday and Tuesday when Durant will be here for a three game series. The first game will be played Sunday at Lake Wichita, starting at 3:30.

Wichita Falls and Durant will not meet, after the regular season opens, until May 15, so that it will be some time befoer the teams get together again. The Durant team is said to be one of this year's most promising clubs, in spite of its cellar championship of last year.

Entered at the Postoffice at Wichita Falls as second class mail matter

The bill protecting the waste of natural gas has been signed by Gov. Colquitt, and as it carried with it an emergency clause, it is now the law.

Another election is to be held tomorrow, and the polling place will be at the city hall. Seven school trustees are to be chosen for the independent school district of Wichita Falls. The polls open at 8 a. m. and close at 7 p. m. The names of candidates as they appear on the official ballot are as follows: W. J. Bullock, W. W. Brown, T. J. Taylor, J. L. Downing, A. H. Carrigan, J. L. Jackson, W. R. Ferguson.—All except the three last named are now members of the board.

The legislature failed to get through a redistricting bill, and even if it does not succeed in doing this at the extra or special session to convene in July the state will not suffer greatly. We rather like the idea, anyhow, of voting for at least two congressmen at-large. There is not such lack of enthusiasm as if one knew in advance just whom the district was cut for, and who it belongs to just as long as the fellow lives or naturally becomes worn out and tired of riding a cinch and quits of his own accord.

Mrs. Pankhurst, the militant suffragette leader of England, has been sentenced to prison for a term of three years, but declares she will go on a "hunger strike" the moment she enters the prison doors. This is a rather novel way those English women have of forcing their release. It works most successfully, and the chances are that Mrs. Pankhurst will obtain her liberty before the strike lasts very long. Man-made laws that will permit a woman to starve herself to death rather than submit to their enforcement would receive a most severe jolt should even one woman make a sacrifice of her life, and from all accounts Mrs. Pankhurst is of that kind who will do anything—even to giving up her life, if to do so would in any small degree advance the cause for which she stands—"votes for women." That is a question that, right now, is about the biggest one that both England and America will be forced to settle.

The ethics of the medical profession are not at all within reach of the lay comprehension. For one thing the doctors cannot "advertise" even to the extent of giving general knowledge of location or phone number that might be of great service in case of emergency. For another thing the "ethics" is giving a country a painful and humiliating exhibit in the treatment of the newly arrived German who claims a cure for the dread tuberculosis. The whole united power of the profession, and the laws they have managed to have slipped into statutes against an unsuspecting public, are being exercised against a fair trial of the cure offered this duly accredited and credentialed physician from abroad. Suffering and death weigh nothing in the scale against the profession's ethics.—Henrietta Review.

The "advertising doctor" comes in for a great deal more abuse in some instances than he really deserves. The fact that he advertises does not make him a quack. There are quack doctors and surgeons who are extremely ethical.

EXPLORER SCOTT VINDICATES NOAH

For a man to be disbelieved by his fellow men while living, and to be fully and abundantly vindicated 4,035 years after his death by a man who lost his life in the act, must be conceded to be a very unusual experience, but nothing less than this can be claimed for Noah.

The Bible shows that prior to the flood it had never rained: "The Lord God had not caused it to rain upon the earth, but there went up a mist from the earth and watered the whole face of the ground." (Genesis 2:6, 7.) The earth was enveloped by a canopy similar to those which now form rings about the planet Saturn. This made the whole of earth's atmosphere like hot-houses, warm, moist, admirably suited to the development of plant life. Every part of the earth was covered with rank vegetation. Man was not created until the atmosphere became suited to human needs, but the canopy was still there, kept off by centrifugal force, for centuries after man was upon the earth.

Little by little the centrifugal ac- or caused the canopy to gravitate toward the poles. Finally its weight at the poles became great enough to break through the atmosphere which upheld it, and the flood occurred. Noah forewarned of the impending event, built the ark, and he and his family were saved. The rest of humanity, disbelieving Noah's warning perished miserably.

Now comes the news of Explorer Scott's sad death, but with it comes the announcement that in the regions about the South Pole he found coal and relics of mammals and large land animals which prove that the regions thereabout was once covered with a heavy vegetation. Thus the Bible account is proved, and the disbelievers of Holy Writ are at their wit's end to find a theory other than the flood to account for the apparently impossible growth of vegetation in forbidding climate.

If Explorer Scott has thus proved Noah's truthfulness after so many years, is it unreasonable to expect that the God of the Bible will, in His own due time, restore to man his lost dominion, as the Psalmist has so definitely assured us He will ultimately do? Read thoughtfully Psalm 8:49.—The Wandering Jew.

PERFORMING ON THE AVENUE

Among Famous Men, Chief Justice White is the Champion "Hiker"—Other Notables.

Washington has a "Pedestrians' club," the members of which are among the most famous men in the land. It is that of the justices of the Supreme court of the United States. The chief "hiker" is Chief Justice White. The privates in the walking squad are Associate Justices Holmes, Hughes, Lamar and occasionally Justice McKenna.

These eminent jurists may be seen almost any day the court sits, "performing" on Pennsylvania avenue, around five o'clock in the afternoon. They walk from the capitol to the treasury, a good mile, and there disband. Some enter their waiting carriages, some the plebeian street car.

Their "hike" is no promenade. They take a brisk gait, considering their years, and engage in earnest and often agitated conversation. Usually they are so engrossed in their discussion that they unwittingly pass by acquaintances and friends without seeing them.

Tradition has it that Chief Justice John Marshall was the founder of the club. In the traditions of the club, Mr. Justice Story is also credited with having been an ardent "hiker." So were Justices Ellsworth, Miller, Field, Taney, Chase and Harlan. Chief Justice White was a pupil of the latter in the art of "hiking."

HORATIUS

Who kept the bridge in the brave old days of old, is probably the most pleasing Roman hero of historic narrative. He was what is known in some of the modern vernaculars as a Hum-Dinger. He stood pat and dared a powerful army to invade Rome and made it stick. He was crowned with a laurel wreath which in the matter of honor was about the same as getting yourself fastened to a Carnegie medal for rescuing a pie-eyed wreck from a duck puddle who thinks he was aboard the Titanic when it sank. But speaking of honor, the chap who will come in for tears of admiration as big as a gas meter for making a noise that reached round the world and blessed humanity from one end of the world to the other and who will reap a wreath worth mentioning is the chap who invented ALTA VISTA PURE ICE CREAM. That taste teasing, palate tickling ALTA VISTA PURE ICE CREAM that has a fetching farewell that you can't forget if you live until Mathedslah looks like a trundle bedder. TAKE A BUCKET HOME.

REUNION CHICKAMAUGUA SURVIVORS IS PLANNED

Those Who Fought Along LaFayette Road Will Meet at Chattanooga

Chattanooga, Tenn, April 4—The most historic road in the environs of Chickamauga park is the LaFayette road, which at the time of the battle of Chickamauga was a public highway leading from Chattanooga to LaFayette, Ga The contending armies fought back and forth across this road, and the flame of battle was so destructive that the road became the 'bloody lane' of the field LaFayette road has been put in fine condition by the government so that touring cars run over it at a high rate of speed It is one of the best drives in the South

The first day's fighting at Chickamauga ended with the forces still contending for LaFayette road, the Confederates driving west in an effort to break the Federal lines The scene there as darkness settled down over the field is the most melancholy picture of Chickamauga In the course of his magnificent chapter on Chickamauga Gen John B Gordon thus describes it

'Gradually the mighty wrestlers grew weary and faint and silence reigned again in the shell splintered forest. It was however only a lull in the storm On the extreme Union left the restless Confederates were again moving into line for a last and tremendous effort The curtain of night slowly descended and the powder blackened bayonets and flags over the hostile lines were but dimly seen in the dusky twilight Wearily the battered ranks in gray moved again through the bullet scarred woods over the dead bodies of their brothers who fell in the early hours and whose pale faces told the living of coming fate Nature mercifully refused to lend her light to guide the unyielding armies to further slaughter But the blazing muzzles of the rifles became their guides and the first hour of darkness was made hideous by resounding small arms and their lurid flashes

To the two armies whose blood still flowed long after the sun went down on the 19th neither of them victorious but each so near the other as to hear the groans of the wounded and dying in the opposing ranks the scene was indescribably oppressive Cleburne's Confederates had waded the river with water to their armpits Their clothing was drenched and their bodies shivering in the chill north wind through the weary hours of the night The noise of axe blows and falling trees along the Union lines in front plainly foretold that the Confederate assault upon the Union breastworks at the coming dawn was to be over an abatis of felled timber, tangled brush and obstructing tree tops The faint moonlight almost wholly shut out by dense foliage added to the weird spell of the sombre scene In every direction were dimly burning tapers carried by nurses and relief corps searching for the wounded All over the field lay the unburied dead, their pale faces made ghastlier by streaks of blood and clotted hair and black stains of powder left upon their lips when they tore off with their teeth ends of deadly cartridges Such was the night between the 19th and 20th of September at Chickamauga"

As already explained the scenes were along the LaFayette road back and across which the forces had contended all day It is doubtful if there is a bloodier lane in the world The points of the most desperate struggles along the LaFayette road have been marked by the government and any soldier who fought at Chickamauga can easily locate the position of his regiment or company by aid of these markers and historical tablets

It is not known how many Confederate soldiers are now living who survived the slaughter at Chickamauga The list however is not by any means small By the fall of 1863 mere boys had gone to the front and enlisted in the Confederate service There are plenty of men yet in full vigor who fought at Chickamauga Lookout mountain and Missionary ridge One of the survivors of the struggle around Chattanooga said in an interview at reunion headquarters here recently that he believed there were yet living more than 3000 ex Confederates who fought at Chickamauga He regarded that number as a conservative estimate This ex Confederate predicted that there would be more than 1000 men at the coming reunion May 27 29 inclusive who were in that greatest of all battles If so a reunion of these survivors will be arranged for some point along LaFayette road during reunion week

MORE ATTENTION TO AGRICULTURE

STAFF WRITER IN DALLAS NEWS TELLS OF THIS CITY'S NEEDS

DIFFERENT FROM OTHERS

Depends Less on Farms Than Most Cities But Should Not Look too Much to Factories

That Wichita Falls, without abating her efforts toward securing more industries and bettering her condition from a manufacturing standpoint should begin to look more to the agricultural future of her territory is the opinion of F. A. Briggs, staff correspondent of the Dallas News, as set forth in an article in Thursday's issue of that paper. Mr. Briggs was here last week. He is considered one of the state's best authorities on development work, having made a special study of it for many years. His article follows:

This city is one of the exceptions to the general rule that municipalities depend in a large measure on the development of the agricultural resources in their adjacent territory. It may not prove to be an exception to the rule that cities without a well developed agricultural industry to assist in its support are subject to more frequent periods of depression due to labor troubles, panics brought about by manipulation, glutted markets on certain manufactured products, and the many other troubles which often beset various industries of a commercial nature.

Just now Wichita Falls is devoting tremendous energy in building up manufacturing industries. Earlier in its history, before natural gas was discovered near at hand, this little city lifted itself out of the small village class by building railroads and then securing such industries as its natural advantages and transportation lines suggested. It is a manufacturing center of great importance and is securing for its citizens all the advantages and benefits of modern public utilities.

Some Are Looking Ahead.

Not all, however, are completely submerged in the idea that the city can maintain its pace by developing manufacturing alone. The fact that the primary basis of all prosperity is the soil has not been entirely lost sight of, has not been much in evidence during the past three or four years, neither has it been entirely forgotten. A movement is simmering in the minds of the members of the Chamber of Commerce to take up this important matter. There is a question of good roads throughout the country; the development of virgin soil, the increasing of acre tonnage, soil development and the providing of markets for all that is produced. To bring Wichita county and other territory adjacent to the city into a condition of productiveness of which it is capable, to develop its livestock industry by bringing it up to a livestock farming proposition and selling the great feedstuff crops on the hoof is to give the city and its manufacturing industries a substantial backing which will insure permanent growth and prosperity and maintain it even in times of depression, and greatly ease the shock in case the natural gas and the oil fields should become unproductive, as has been the habit of such fields in other sections of the world.

Wichita County Farms.

Land area—356,560 acres.
Land in farms—326,628 acres.
Improved land—174,656 acres.
Number of farms—1,039.
Average acres in farms—314.
Average acres improved—168.
Farms operated by tenants—574.
Farms operated by owners—457.
Farms operated by managers—8.
Value of farm land—$9,398,415.
Value of machinery, etc.—$262,847.
Value of buildings—$776,642.
Value of stock, etc.—$1,283,669.
Total—$11,715,573.

Have a Good Start.

Of the area of Wichita county, 84.5 per cent is classed as farm land, of which 53 per cent is improved. The problem now to be solved is not contained in the proposition to increase the acreage, but to increase the acre production and provide a market for everything raised in order that farmers may receive fair returns on their investment.

Wichita county, like other counties in this section, is considered a live stock country. It has advanced from a ranching proposition to a basis of live stock farming. Nearly all stock raisers cultivate a large acreage of feedstuffs. Nearly all farmers have some stock. Thus far the industry has not advanced to the silo stage, neither do farmers make it a rule to conserve and save their fertilizer and restore it to the soil, but as regards all features of the industry, there is a general improvement.

Co-operative Farms.

The county commissioners and the Chamber of Commerce at Wichita Falls have displayed interest in the agricultural industry to the extent of co-operating with the Agricultural Department at Washington in supporting a farm demonstrator. This expert is actively engaged in proving the value of better farming methods and he has on his list 240 farmers who are following his directions as the conditions and circumstances permit. Their success means the success of their observing neighbors.

Work on these lines, however, is not enough. The Wichita county farmers deserve better roads. While the cost of transportation in the country has probably never been considered by the majority in the form of dollars and cents, good roads will mean to them larger loads, a saving of time, less wear and tear on wagons and teams and the ability to market their products in all kinds of weather. It is understood that the matter is now under consideration by prominent citizens and will probably be taken care of.

Wichita Falls Manufacturing.

It is customary in letters of this nature to refer to towns and cities incidentally, but to discuss in detail those things which help make the city. In this case, which is an exception to the rule, it becomes necessary to go inside the city limits. While the stock interests and fertile fields may have been the beginning of Wichita Falls, the city has out developed its surrounding or adjacent territory. Energetic citizens with preceptive qualifications and ability to act quickly gave to the city its prominence as a railroad center and opened up a field for the distribution of merchandise. Others took advantage of the rail service and large deposits of fine brick clay and established large brick and tile plants of which there are two. The development of the Young county coal fields called for a railroad and Wichita Falls built it. Later natural gas was discovered in Clay county nearby and of in Wichita county and this combination brought advantages quickly accorded. Today there are two large glass factories, one manufacturing window glass and the other bottles, while one of the largest fruit jar concerns in the country is putting up a plant of large capacity. These concerns employ many skilled men, but are not by any means all that the city has in the way of factories. The Wichita Falls motor works is a growing concern, its trucks being found in all cities of Texas and elsewhere. There is a broom factory using Texas broom corn, and a flour mill next to the largest in Texas; railroad shops, compresses, gins and many other institutions, employing together in excess of 2,000 men whose weekly envelopes contain a total sum of money approximating $50,000.

The city is progressive and expecting a greater development. Its basis of growth and prosperity is manufacturing. Develop its agricultural territory even to 75 per cent of its capacity and continued progress is almost assured.

The little tots are always fond of pastry, but if made from lard it's bound to be greasy and indigestible, and isn't good for their little stomachs; if made from butter, it's too expensive—at present butter prices.

Cottolene

is far better than lard because it is a vegetable product, never makes food greasy, never causes indigestion. It is the equal of butter at about one-third the price. So why be extravagant?

Feed the "kiddies" their fill of pastry—if made from Cottolene it won't harm them.

Cottolene is both economical and healthful.

TRY THIS RECIPE:

Doughnuts

3 tablespoons Cottolene — ¾ cup sugar
3 egg yolks — 1 white — ¼ cup milk
2½ cups flour — 1 cup freshly mashed potatoes
½ teaspoon salt — 3 teaspoons baking powder
½ teasp'n gr'd mace — ¼ teasp'n gr'd nutmeg

Cream the Cottolene, add sugar, then the eggs, stir in potato and milk, add flour gradually, use more if necessary. Roll and cut all doughnuts needed before frying. Fry in deep Cottolene.

Hunt's Peaches, unlike most others, are knife-peeled. You cannot afford to serve your family lye-peeled Fruit, a cheapening process used by most canners to add to their profits. The boiling lie softens unripe fruit, kills the natural fruit juice, gives it the appearance of being ripe, but is lacking in flavor. Don't accept fruit offered you "just as good as Hunt's. You pay just as much for inferior fruits.

Phillippines and Water Power Control Tough Problems For War Secretary; He Would the Make Army Popular

(By Robert F. Wilson)

Washington, April 4.—Routine matters had been conducted in the same old routine way for a good many years in the war department prior to the incoming of the new secretary, Lindley M. Garrison. They started off in the same routine way with him until they were abruptly halted during his second day in office. His secretary had brought him a batch of mail to be signed.

"What's this?" he demanded, reading over a letter. The missive informed the enquirer that such and such a procedure at a certain army post is followed because "the department has adopted such a policy."

"But this man asked for a reason—an explanation—and we have merely told him it was a departmental policy," said Garrison.

"This man is an awful nuisance," explained the private secretary. "He is continually pestering us with questions."

"Nevertheless, it is his right to know," said the new secretary of war, "White paper is cheap, and I suggest we use another page of it and explain to him why the department adopted the policy."

Garrison has come into the war department afflicted with the strange notion that the army and the army officers are servants of the public and that the public is entitled to know all that is done in the war department and why it is done.

Two Big Problems.

Garrison will need all of his tact and the full use of his great mental powers to steer through the troubled waters of the next four years. Two of the greatest problems confronting the administration will come before him for solution. One is the Philippine question—whether we are to grant independence to the island people. And the other is a problem which far sighted men are already predicting will be the most burning issue since the slavery contention—the old states' rights question—whether we are to have federal control of the great resource of water power, or whether that control is to be given to the individual states.

It is said that President Wilson, realizing the gravity of these questions—problems which are likely to dwarf the importance of such issues as the tariff and currency reform—spent more time selecting a secretary of war than any other cabinet officer. He chose Garrison, chancellor of New Jersey, possessor of one of the most eminent legal minds in the United States, but a man who had never before held executive office, and a political unknown.

But no member of the new cabinet attracted the instant admiration that Garrison has during his first days in office. Almost everyone who visits the war department immediately becomes a Garrison enthusiast. The new secretary is continually being likened to Roosevelt when he came to Washington as an unknown. Garrison has the same instantaneous grasp of big affairs, the same originality an dinventiveness, and the same crisp manner of speech and action in putting his judgments into effect. All sorts of predictions are being made for him. He is heralded as one of the coming big men of America, perhaps a future president.

Has Teddy's Strenuousness.

The new war secretary is a man slightly above medium height, sturdily built, but alert in bodily movements, suggesting the strenuousness of Roosevelt. His smooth shaven rounded, oblong face gives his eyes the appearance of being set rather close together. His eyes are not large, but are clear, brown, short sighted and very inquisitive. His head is crowned with stone gray hair.

Garrison is one of the most easily approached public men now at the helm of the government. He instantly sets a visitor at ease. His mind works with lightning rapidity. His busy brain has been absorbing and cataloging information during most of the 48 years of his life. He comprehends a question in a flash and answers with the flowing, unhalting utterance of a man whose mind is as sparkling clear and unfogged as an April morning after a shower. He is like the president in that he never hesitates for the right word.

Secretary Garrison's one passion is for outdoor athletics. He plays golf and tennis, and is yearning for the time when he can spare an afternoon and get out to the tennis court or golf course.

Tells 'Em Where to Head In.

In his equity court in New Jersey Chancellor Garrison gained the reputation of being a martinet. He explained to me that a rigid court punctilio made speed in the transaction of the public business. And it is whispered that Secretary of War Garrison has already demonstrated that he is the boss of the war department. Already in plain words he has told some of the brigadier generals where to head in, but he has done it so decently that no one has taken offense. But there is a mighty growing respect for him among the officers of the army.

Two of the greatest problems confronting the Wilson administration will come before Lindley M. Garrison, secretary of war, during his tenure in office. One is the Philippine question—whether we are to grant independence to the island people. The other is a problem which far sighted men are already predicting will be the most burning issue since the slavery question—whether we are to have federal or state control of the great resource of water power.

It is said that Garrison will endeavor to settle these questions irrespective of any promises which may have been made in the Democratic platform.

Lindley M. Garrison.

THE VALIDITY OF SOME ORDINANCES

CITY ATTORNEY GIVES OPINION CONCERNING ORDINANCES ASKED BY CIVIC LEAGUE

CAN CENSOR PICTURES

Also Levy Tax on Cigarette Dealers But Cannot Enforce Curfew Law or Establish Juvenile Court

The right of the city to pass several ordinances which the civic and women's organizations of the city have begun agitation for, is determined by City Attorney Bonner, in opinions filed with the city council last night. Mr. Bonner passed upon the moving picture censorship ordinance, the municipal juvenile court odrinance, the ordinance for an occupation tax upon cigarette dealers and the curfew ordinance.

Mr. Bonner held that the city had the right to censor moving picture films and that it could assess a $5 annual occupation tax on cigarette dealers, but that it was without authority to enforce a curfew ordinance or establish a juvenile court.

The moving picture censorship plan would provide for a board which would view films before they are exhibited in the local theatres and determine their morality, or lack of it, and other matters which would make it undesirable for them to be shown. Mr. Bonner cites an Illinois case which seems to be the only one on record on this question, showing the right of cities to censor such pictures.

With reference to the juvenile court, Mr. Bonner says that the authority to establish such courts is conferred by the law upon the county and district courts, no such authority being given cities

On the cigarette tax, it was found that the city may collect half of the amount levied by the State, which would be five dollars. In passing upon the curfew ordinance, Mr Bonner quoted from a court opinion as follows:

"We hold that the attempt to enact such an ordinance is paternalistic and is an evasion on the personal liberty of the citizens It may be that there are some bad boys in our city whose parents do not properly control them at home and who prowl about the streets and alleys during the night and commit offenses. Of course, whenever they do, they are amendable to the law, but it does not follow that it is a legitimate function of government to restrict them and keep them off the streets when they are committing no offense."

LIGHT CONTRACT AGAIN DELAYED

OPENING OF BIDS POSTPONED BY COUNCIL UNTIL NEXT THURSDAY NIGHT

SEVEN SISTERS BLOCK

City May Have to Wait For New Charter Before Buying Park Site

There was another delay last night on the lighting contract and it was decided to again postpone the opening of the bids until next Thursday night, when an award will be made if a satisfactory bid is received. Most of last night's session was passed in waitnig for the lighting committee, which was in session, to make a report.

N. Henderson, representing the property owners who purchased the "Seven Sisters" block three years ago, appeared before the council to ask that the city take the property over. The property had cost himself and associates $16,000 to date, he said.

Mayor Bell said that there was no doubt that the city wanted the property, but he was not sure the council was in position to take action just now. He asked Mr. Henderson to wait until the new charter can become a reality.

The council passed an order upon the state controller at Austin, directing him to turn over the city's light and sewer bonds to J T Sluder, of San Antonio, who represents the firm which purchased them The remainder of the session was taken pp with lighting matters. The council will have a called session Monday night to canvass the returns of last Tuesday's election and to swear in the aldermen.
